ISICO 2019 notification for paper 192

To: Burhanudin Burhanudin

Dear Burhanudin Burhanudin,

On behalf of ISICO Scientific Committee, we are happy to inform that your paper with the following details:

Paper ID: 192

Title: Connecting Intention to Use Online Banking, Commitment to Environmental Sustainability, and Happiness: The Role of Nature Relatedness

Has been ACCEPTED WITH REVISIONS for Conference Paper Presentation in ISICO 2019. Please find the reviews of your paper attached at the bottom of this e-mail. The reviews are also accessible in the EasyChair system for ISICO 2019 [<http://its.id/isicosubmission>].

ISICO is a biannual international conference, and after presenting at ISICO, all full papers will be published under Procedia Computer Science (PCS), Elsevier which is openly accessible at www.sciencedirect.com. The current H-Index of PCS is 21, which is considerably high in the Computing-related fields. All full papers are at least double-blind, developmental reviewed by the Scientific Committee. Final acceptance of approved camera-ready papers will be contingent on incorporating reviewers' feedback to the satisfaction of the Editors-in-chief.

Please note that this status is conditional unless all the feedback from reviewers is incorporated in the final version of your full paper (camera-ready version). All authors should take the review comments carefully into account when preparing for the camera-ready version of their paper. Please note that the page limit is up to 8 (eight) pages, and the full paper format needs to follow the NEW template which can be downloaded at the following link: <https://intip.in/isico2019templates>, under "PROCS_ISICO_2019_Templates" folder. You may copy your text from your current file into the NEW template.

Please also note that we reserve the right to change the decision results if the remarks from the reviewers or required formatting guidelines are not respected. You will receive a detailed description of camera-ready copy preparation in a separate email message, and the details on registration are available at our website (<http://isico.info>).

If you have more questions, please do not hesitate to contact us at editor.isico@gmail.com. Please notify your co-authors about the reviews because only corresponding authors receive this e-mail.

Best regards,

ISICO 2019 Organizing Committees

TITLE: Connecting Intention to Use Online Banking, Commitment to Environmental Sustainability, and Happiness: The Role of Nature Relatedness

AUTHORS: Burhanudin Burhanudin, Ronny Ronny and Ellen Theresia Sihotang

----- Overall evaluation -----

1. The evidence of such relatedness appears in the study by Schultz et al. (2004) or Alcock (2012).--> please used consistently the ISICO citation style.

2. According to this model, feeling a oneness with nature makes bank customers have the intention to use online banking (IUO) together with the commitment to environmental sustainability (CESS) and happiness (HPS) --> according to Fig 1, where is NRS?

3. For the level of nature relatedness, the description appears in the Appendix --> Where is the appendix? If it is short, no need appendix.

4. Please explain about the population and samples. How this sample or population was chosen. How many participant?

5. The model should explained the indicators for each variable, how many statement for each indicators, the correlation between indicator to the variables (formative or reflective), and how to measure it.

6. The R2 value, however is very small. How author build the argument to explained this result correlated to the conclusion for accepting the overall proposed model? It need more details argument especially in the discussion section or conclusion.

Connecting Intention to Use Online Banking, Commitment to Environmental Sustainability, and Happiness: The Role of Nature Relatedness

The idea presented in the article is interesting. The study examines the influence of nature relatedness on an intention to use online banking with the commitment to environmental sustainability and happiness. Apart from some basic errors on the rudimentary checking of its (English) structure, the article might stand a chance to be presented in an international conference if the author(s) could consider the following suggestions.

1) Abstract

The background as to why the experiment was taken is lacking. It would provide a good stance for the paper if the abstract also mentions, e.g., the problems the research is undertaking or the impact the research is contributing to.

2) The literature review and the proposed model

Please consider presenting this section by discussing each variable of the proposed model. The discussion shall be structured in a systematic and lucid manner, using a more formal language style that is academically acceptable. It is also important to present the reader(s) how each of the variables is explored from the previous works of scholars in the related field.

3) Method

The number of questionnaires distributed and the ratio of responded questionnaires have not yet explained in this part. These data are important because it will justify the research results. The author(s) is strongly advised to consider providing this information in the Method part. It is also highly suggested for the author(s) to explain more on the questionnaires being used in the study, or perhaps enclose them in the article as an appendix.

4) Result and Discussion

The model has been described as "feeling a oneness with nature makes bank customers have the intention to use online banking (IUO) together with the commitment to environmental sustainability (CESS) and happiness (HPS)." Therefore, the discussion shall be put forward this statement rather than discussion only partial relationship of variables within the model.

5) Conclusion

The "This relatedness is important for promoting green practices in banking" arguments on the research results are quite strong, yet those arguments are not backed up with more arguments on the research benefits, i.e., how the results can be implemented, and what impacts in the related field, or practice. The author(s) is suggested to position the research findings based on the study, and perhaps discuss some limitations from where further research may seek after.
